BINARY SEARCH TREE ASSIGNMENT 4

CSC2001F

OOP

Classes (From least to most dependant)

- Post
- Account
- BST.Node
- BST (Binary search tree)
- TikTok

Post

The post class holds data for the type post. It is a tiktok post. This includes post title, post file and number of likes.

Account

This class holds the data for the account type. This is where the user information is stored. This includes username, user description and posts.

BST.node

This class is in the BST file and serves as a node in the binary search tree. It holds an account and left and right nodes.

BST

This class mainly contains methods for the binary search tree such as but not limited to insert and delete.

TikTok

This is where the main class is. It contains the "Menu" and relevant functions.

Relationship

The tiktok class utilises all the classes. It uses BST to store Accounts, and accounts contain posts.

Output and Test Values

For each menu item a try catch was used for invalid inputs. The isBlank function was created to check if an entered string was blank. However after testing I found out that I didn't actually need it. So it now resides in the testing.java file.

Blank means it did not contain any alpha numeric characters ie wasn't just spaces etc it would return the following as true (not limited to, just examples):

- . " "
- · m

This is also my "creative part".

Try, Catch was used to validate all inputs.

For the testing I used three accounts:

zuhayr a loser with posts: my first vid vid1.mp4

yaseen a losers homie with posts: at the mall malvid.mp4

Husseinthe goat with posts: lecture 1 lv1.mp4, lecture 2 lv2.mp4
